

DAIRY FARM SPRING

An innovative nature-based district that focuses on climate resilience, with the perfect mix of tranquility and vibrancy for all

Climate change has brought about a multitude of challenges in our urban areas. Dairy Farm Spring is designed to be resilient to these challenges. This means that when there is a shock, it will be able to absorb the disturbance, recover from its effects, maintain essentially the same functions over time and then continue with its development.

Dairy Farm Spring features several innovative developments that would be a model to promote a balance between vibrancy and peacefulness for future districts. With a strong emphasis on public education, we hope to equip the general public with the skills and knowledge to help build a climate resilient society together.
